Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

Charles Ulm and two companions forced down on a Pacific Ocean flight, were despaired for lost yesterday. The flyers after leaving the Hawaiian Islands Tuesday began sending out distress signals stating they had gotten off their course. The signals became weaker but eventually flashed the news the big plane had been forced down on the sea. Since that time ships and planes have been combing the area to find the ill-fated plane, but up to last night no tract had been discovered.

"Rooms For Tourists" Closes Lecture Course

The closing attraction of the Entertainment Festival was presented in the school auditorum Friday evening and was witnessed by a large audience.

A three-act mystery play, "Rooms For Tourists" was given. The play opened in a typical Tourists' Home, with father and mother busily preparing for their departure for the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. A daughter Wilda was left in charge of the home during their brief absence and in the protecting care of an absent-minded professor uncle whose hobby was a study of criminology.

As soon as the parents left events began to happen fast and furiously. A kidnaper, a federal officer, a spinster sister of the kidnaped banker, all sought out this peaceful house. The professor became so absorbed in his books and also in the spinster that he almost forgot his protectorate role and the home became a scene of most unusual actions.

The audience was given many thrills and amusing situations as the story unfolded to an equally pleasing ending.

The professional cast was directed by Glen Wells, who played the part of the father and professor uncle.

The lecture number which was given the week before by F. Preston Johnson, a Chicago newspaper man, was very interesting. He spoke from the subject "Facing The New Day".

Scouting Aid To School[s] Is Mad[e]

Field Staff Lecturer, Who Conducted Scout Training Courses Here This Week, Praises Achievement of Organization — Asserts That Scout Leadership Provides a Fertile Field of Endeavor for School Teachers.

A stop-gap, if not a substitute, for schools which through lack of money have closed their doors or cut their courses to a minimum, is to be found in Girl Scouting, according to Miss Valora Davis of the national Girl Scout field staff, who conducted a training course in Addison this week. Miss Davis quoted figures authorized by the Office of Education, Washington, to show how acute is the problem facing the country.

"With over two and a quarter million children growing up with no education whatsover and one of every two cities reducing or eliminating the extra-curricular activities we have come to regard as essential, every parent and public-spirited citizen will want to investigate all possible means of relieving the situation", Miss Davis said. The aims and methods of Girl Scouting are basically those of modern progressive education. The program can certainly supplement and strengthen even if it cannot substitute for the work of the schools."

Miss Davis explained how Girl

John M. O'Keefe is Designated Acting Postmaster At Addison

Deadlock of Long Standing for Coveted Postal Berth is Broken — New Encumbent a Native of Addison and Long Prominent in Athletic, Political and Fire Association Circles—To Assume Duties December 9th.

Official notification of his appointment as acting postmaster of Addison was received by John M. O'Keefe, one of five candidates who have been contending for the post during the past year or more, from Postmaster-General Farley Monday afternoon. Mr. O'Keefe will take charge of the offic Sunday morning, December 9th. He announced yesterday that Mrs. Ethel Smyth would continue in her present position as postal clerk and that James Tobin would succeed Hubert Orr as the third member of the office staff.

The newly-designated postmaster is a life-long resident of Addison and is widely-known in athletic, political and firemen's association circles throughout this area. He is a son of the late Dennis O'Keefe, a popular figure among the older residents, who conducted the Eagle Hotel from 1884 until his death in 1924.

Mr. O'Keefe attended Addison High School and gained his first athletic prominence as pitcher and third baseman of the high school baseball team which included, among others, such well-known figures as Louis Silva, Charles Edwards, Harold Colburn, Ned Saxton, John Hanrahan, Sheldon Clark, John Sheehan and James McWilliams. In those days Addison High School also boasted a football team and in various homes and places of business about town today, including the Eagle Hotel and the law offices of Charles L. Crane, pictures of the high school eleven hang on the walls. Both Mr. Crane and Mr. O'Keefe were members of the squad. 1933.

In 1908-9, Mr. O'Keefe played semi-pro ball with the Canton, Pa. team. His career in baseball, which extended over a period of approximately twenty years, was interrupted in 1910-11, when he served as a trainman on the B. & S. Railroad. The following year he was back in the national game with the Rome, N. Y., team in the New York State League. In '14 and '15, he was with Hornell and Whitesville teams of the Inter-State League. Subsequently, he moved up to the Elmira team of the New York-Pennsylvania circuit and was with the Rochester team of the International League in 1918 for a month prior to his departure for the wartime military service at Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland, where he served in the Chemical Warfare Section.

After the war Mr. O'Keefe played semi-pro ball with a number of outstanding teams of this section, including Addison, Cohocton and the Painted Post Imperials, until 1926, when he retired from active play. He also at one time conducted a picture show in the old Baldwin Block and later, for about three years, conducted a billiard parlor and cigar store.

The new acting postmaster has been active in the affairs of the Democratic party for many years and has been a member of the Democratic County Committee since 1924. He has also been fire chief of the village for the past ten years.

Mr. O'Keefe will succeed Burrell Vastbinder, who served as postmaster during the three successive Republican administrations from 1921-

National Banks of State Must Cut Time Rate To 2½ Per Cent

Interest or Dividend Rates on Time Deposits Now Uniform for All Banks of State — Ruling of Federal Reserve Board Makes Lower Rate Mandatory for National as Well as State Banks.

Since announcement several days ago that the interest rate on time deposits in banks of New York State would be limited to 2½ per cent after January 1st, an erroneous impression has gained credence that national banks throughout the state would voluntarily lower their rate to conform with that prescribed by the state for state chartered institutions.

The new ruling, however, is mandatory upon members of both state and national banking systems, as is explained by an article which appeared in the "American Banker", a financial daily published in New York City, in its issue of last Saturday, December 1st.

The article reads:

National banks are subject to the regulations of the New York State Banking Board, limiting to 2½ per cent, interest or dividend rates on time deposits, according to circular 1482 of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, dated November 28, which has just been received by New York banks, transmitting a ruling of the Federal Reserve Board.

The ruling grows out of the agitation among the banks of the state as to whether the institutions of the national system were bound by the State Board ruling.

Banks throughout the state, including the mutuals, were desirous of reducing their interest rates into a better relation with the money market but were unwilling to assume the onus of doing it on their own initiative. In the case of State-

Tuberculosis Prevention and Cure First Proved by Dr. E. L. Trudeau

Current Christmas Seal Shows Adirondack Cabin in Which Was Demonstrated the Value of Fresh Air and Rest—Work Supported by Seal Campaign—Mrs. Taylor is Local Chairman.

The contribution of Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau to the prevention of tuberculosis was discussed by Miss Ethel Phillips, director of the Visiting Nurse and Tuberculosis Association of Elmira in a talk in that city recently. Miss Phillips' talk signalized the formal opening of the 28th annual Christmas Seal campaign in the Southern Tier Territory.

"Look at your little Christmas Seal this year, "said Miss Phillips, "and you will see a little winter scene in which appears a little one-story cabin in the Adirondacks. It would never be taken for an educational institution, or a health resort, or still less as the neucleus from which have grown more than 650 great institutions for the healing of the sick. Yet it is all these. It was the first sanitarium in this country for the modern treatment of tuberculosis. In 1885 Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau built it to house the tuberculosis patients who had come to him at Saranac Lake. Dr. Trudeau believed in the rest and fresh air treatment, which he had found effective in his own case, when, after the diagnosis which in those days meant certain death, he had gone to the mountains to spend his last days.

"In those days tuberculosis was considered a hopeless disease—there

Addison Bank Sends Out Christmas Club Checks

Many Addison people will not have to be without Christmas gifts in 1934, even if the depression remains this side of "the corner." The First National Bank mailed out Christmas Club checks Monday night for $2,460.75. The accumulation of this fund shows the wisdom of small savings made regularly each week.

State Master Delivers Dedicatory Address at New Rathbone Grange

Saturday, December 1, was "Grange Day" to the people of Rathbone, as farm families gathered from far and near to dedicate the fine new Rathbone Grange hall. The Rathbone order was highly honored by the presence of the state master, Fred J. Freestone of Interlaken, who delivered the dedicatory address.

Mr. Frestone said in substance: "Children have a third parent as well as a father and mother—the community where our young people are raised becomes a parent by whom they are advised after outgrowing their father and mother.

"The Grange helps to make the community a better social environment, a place where the father and mother and the whole family can be together. The Grange is the first organization to admit women to its secret portals as worthy members. That was one of the reasons the Grange has been so prosperous. It is the greatest organization in New York State for agriculture. With it farm people can band together to protect their rights. The Grange helps to keep us out of war, as it teaches to love and not hate.

"There were 678 new Granges organized in our nation in 1934. For 40 years it has prospered. There has been 36 juvenile Granges organized in New York in the past year."

Mr. Freestone paid tribute to those members of the Order, whose "work on earth is done, but whose spirits still are present". He praised the Rathbone Grange and all who helped to make possible its new home. He expressed the hope that neither envy nor strife would ever cross its threshold. He predicted the Grange would continue to prosper as "long as the Word of God lay open on their altar, and the American flag was unfurled.".

There were 118 Grangers, their families and friends present. Dinner was served at noon in the spacious dining room of the new building, with plenty for all gathering at the hospitable board.

A fine program was presented. Among the guest speakers was County Deputy C. Arnburg. Altogether the dedication was a fitting dedication to the new building.

Wee—Says Little Pig—Don't Tax Me Yes I Will—Says Uncle Sammy

Now that winter's chill is in the air many farmers have turned their thoughts to butchering the fat hogs out in the pen back of the barn. Many farmers doubtless intend to use part of their own pork and sell the rest to the butcher or private customers. Before counting their profits on the transaction, farmers should remember times aren't "what they uster be", and quite likely they will be liable for a government tax on the meat they sell.

According to the AAA, a farmer butchering his own hogs may sell 300 pounds of pork tax free, if he sells no more than 1,000 pounds, and providing he RAISED THE PIGS HIMSELF — from their mother's bosom. If he sells more than 1000 pounds of pork he butchered, he can claim no exemption. Or, if he bought little pigs from a neighbor, raised them himself and killed them when big and fat, then he cannot claim the exemption of 300 pounds. According to this law a farmer is compelled to pay the processing tax, except as stated above.

WHAT HOG TAXES COST

Residents of Steuben County, if they stopped to investigate the matter, would find that the processing taxes levied on one commodity and another coming from the farm, have raised the cost of living much more than the base tax would indicate. In other words the $2.25 per hundred tax on hogs, for example, is only a small part of the price per pound the consumer pays for practically all of the edible parts of the hog.

In the first place the tax is collected on the live weight of the hog, so by the time it is butchered and dressed there is a shrinkage of approximately one-third. Hence the tax on a dressed hog would be at the rate of over three and one-fourth cents a pound. Yet that is by no means the measure of tax the ordinary consumer pays upon his pork. Many parts of the hog after it is dressed are only partly utilized, consequently the meat commonly eaten carries most of the freight the hog tax represents. For instance, if the reader goes to the meat market for a 5-pound pork loin, at least twenty-four cents of the amount he pays for that meat is a tax. If he buys five pounds of cooked, boneless ham he deposits a tax of more than thirty-eight cents on the counter before he leaves the store.

These figures allow only for the actual tax the government takes out on the meat when it is processed. It does not allow anything for the handl[illegible] costs of the butcher, the jo[illegible] the retailer, to all of whom that tax represents an expense of management which is reflected to greater or less degree in the final amount the consumer must pay.

A merchant might say he would go into the business of selling stamps; he would keep and sell all denominations of stamps only, because they are one staple article which does not depreciate in value. But there is no profit for the individual in selling stamps, so after he sold them awhile paying rent and clerk hire the merchant would find he had lost so much money he had to go out of business. On the other hand a merchant might say he would sell stamps along with other merchandise. He would not make any money off the stamps, but the other merchandise he made a profit on would carry the cost of selling stamps. It is just that way with this processing tax; the butcher, the jobber and the retailer may not add a dollars and cents profit to the amount of the tax, but it is a loss constant in their business, and the consumer pays enough more for the meat he buys to off-set this cost, or the dealers lose money and go out of business.

Taking all these factors into consideration it is pretty certain the consumer pays from five to ten cents more per pound for his pork, directly and indirectly through operation of the processing tax.

What does the farmer get out of it? The big hog raiser in the west who has signed the reduction contract does get paid something in the way of bonus checks from the government. A majority of the eastern farmers not raising hogs in a big way, get no benefit from the program. As a matter of fact, they being CONSUMERS through a large part of the year, rather than PRODUCERS, it costs them directly some five to ten cents per pound for the pork they buy. It also hurts them indirectly, because the whole community in which they live is being distressed with payment of this tax, and assessments on living costs which absorbs considerable money which might have been spent directly for eastern farm commodities.

The AAA has been aptly compared to a huge suction pump that draws great quantities of money out of eastern pocketbooks and sprays it prodigally through the west. It is a bad situation for the eastern farmer and consumer, but one for which there seems to be no hope of curing under the present Administration.

A JUST WAR

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is the success of the government in dealing with our dangerous criminal element during the past six months. A short time ago many of the most reckless law-breakers in our history were literally thumbing their noses at the forces of law. But within the last few months officials have been getting one after another of the worst offenders with a regularity which bodes ill for the most notorious figures of the day. As they were marked on the boards as American's No. 1 Public Enemy, one after another of the bad men of the year have been erased from the slate. Dillinger, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Hollis and finally "Baby Face" Nelson have each paid with their life for careers of robbery and murder.

The successful culmination of most of these late contests between the law and the criminal has been marked by a new style of action on the part of the former, and particularly by the active participation of the federal Department of Justice in the war. The advent of skilled hunters like federal agent Purvis on the scene, coupled with the widespread resources of the national government mobilized for halting the spread of crime, has enabled the law to deal far more effectively against organized gangs. Local police circles have been handicapped by inadequacy, and often ham-strung by politics which protected the bribing gangsters.

Particularly has the success of society's side of the war been due to the new mode of attack adopted by the law. We Americans have desired to protect every man's right in a just trial, so in the past officers have taken the longest of chances arresting men who would shoot them down at the slightest provocation. Now the federal agents have been given permission to treat our dangerous offenders with bullets as well as legal arguments. Officers are trained to use fire-arms as skillfully as criminals and instructed to shoot whenever the law-breaker starts for his gun.

The results of this new type of warfare against crime are gratifying to every person believing in law and order. It is a warfare as justified as it is inexorable. Although many of the most notorious criminals have been shot in the last few months there is still a dangerous army preying upon our national life. The government has some seven thousand men marked as Public Enemies, and until this army of guerrillas is shot down or locked up, the safety of every honest citizen is threatened.

This war is now being fought along the right lines, though lives are being taken in the conflict. Better to shoot down these law-breakers than to let them continue victimizing persons with kidnapings, robbery and murder. Society must continue this just war to extermination.

RELIEF QUESTIONS

The question of relief, and ways of dealing with it becomes more complex day after day. It is one thing to summon up feelings of pride and say this country "will not let any American suffer for anything in these times". It is quite another thing to fathom what complex problems may arise out of a situation that has become more complex than any similar circumstance in our history.

Depressions that have visited us during the fifty years last preceding 1929 were comparatively short lived, so the resources of the country were not severely taxed by relief efforts. During the year or two extent of each "panic", as the term has always been used before, people out of work lived largely off their savings, or the private charity agencies which functioned so well. Before that time there were some long drawn-out periods of depression when the pessimists freely predicted our country's progress had come to a definite end. But that was before our population was so concentrated in metropolitan areas. There was an old saying that nobody living on a farm would starve, and this was a practical truth. The desires were simple. Pride in those days was spelled with a capital P, and to ask for public aid was considered by most people the depth of indignity.

In depressions rural people literally dug into the soil and eked out a living someway. They raised two or three hogs, kept a few cows, had flour ground from their own wheat and could be pretty generally independent of the outside world for years at a time. They traveled no faster than a horse would carry them, so there were no gasoline bills to pay, and as for fuel, they cut it with a cross-cut saw out of the woods.

The picture is enormously changed in 1934. The humblest person has become accustomed to luxuries today which our presidents could not enjoy sixty to seventy years ago. As a people we can and should be justly proud of our amazing advance. But self-congratulation should not blind our eyes to certain fundamental truths.

If a man tumbles into a mud pit up to his waist, he may be disgusted with his plight and hate to ruin his upper garments, but unless he starts clawing mud he will never get out of the pit by his own initiative. We all have fallen into pits of different depths during this depression. Unless we are willing to forget the chagrin of the moment and work our way out individually, the whole of us will remain permanently in this national mud-hole. It would be far better for us to wallow and crawl out, than all to perish together because we may think this mud-hole should not have been allowed to clutch us.

A man recently told a[illegible] who was working "You [illegible] to work [illegible] that pay! I'll get [illegible] working at all."

When men harbor and express sentiments like the above, they are helping to keep the mass of us down in the wallow. There is a false idea existent, that the state owes everyone a living. The state should not let anyone starve, or freeze, or lack for medical attention. But it does not owe a living to persons who have the opportunity to work for any of their needs. The more people become obsessed with that false idea, the longer we shall all be climbing out of the mud.

The Curve Passer is an optimist—although a very foolish one. He believes that traffic is always traveling in his direction and, so believing, he blithely takes chances by going around other cars on "blind" curves.

Farmers Told To Stay Within Trend

Produce Goods That Show Rising Value, Cornell Economists Advise

What shall a farmer in New York state produce to get the most for his time, labor, and money? In other words, what shall he raise so that his purchasing power may be high?

According to Dr. L. C. Cunningham and Kenneth Hood of the New York state college of agriculture, the farmer should produce those things which, over a long period of years, have increased in purchasing power. The farmer should swim wih the economic current.

The purchasing power of poultry and dairy products, and of fruits and vegetables have risen steadily since 1840, they say. The upward trend in dairy purchasing power has been less rapid since 1895 than it was between 1840 and 1895. Grain has been declining since 1855, sheep since 1890, and hay since 1894.

The Cornell economists list those products which have shown a rising trend for the past many years: apples, potatoes, milk, butter, chickens, and eggs. Products that have remained steady are corn and hogs. Those that have shown a falling trend are wheat, oats, barley, beef cattle, sheep, and hay.

Farming is a long-time business, they point out, and the farmer to be successful should study his business with the long-time point of view.

How What and Why?

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State colleges of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

CANNOT HOLD BULBS

H. T. M., Oneonta, writes; "I have a number of flower bulbs, such as tulips, daffodils and jonquils. I cannot plant them this year.

"Can they be held over until next year? If so, what care should they be given during the winter?"

Kenneth Post of the floriculture department replies: "It is impossible to hold daffodils, tulips and other hardy bulbs over winter in storage to plant the following spring. They should be planted immediately or discarded, since they will not flower next spring."

Are Seeds Valuable?

Mrs. A. U. M., Ithaca asks: "Are the seeds of the potato plant valuable? I remember reading a long time ago, that they are valuable. Recently, my mother writes me that they have some potato plants that have seeds on the tops."

Professor Ora Smith of the department of vegetable crops says: "Many years ago when a great number of persons worked to improve the potato by breeding, the seed of the potato plant was quite valuable.

"In recent years, however, this way to improve potatoes has lost much of its former attention. Only a few now work on this problem. These few are in experiment stations and in the U. S. department of agriculture. I would not expect these seeds to have any value at this time.

"Apparently from the number of inquiries we have received the last few weeks about ways to handle potato seeds, these seed bulbs are unusually numerous."

To ROUT RATS

W. D. O., writes: "Is there a safe poison for rats? I want one that will get rats and mice but will not harm household pets."

The answer: "Get some red squill powder from your druggist. It will kill rats and mice relatively [illegible] to human beings and [illegible] domestic animals.

"Mix it in any favorite food of rats or mice. Did you know that mice are apparently as fond of chocolate creams as of cheese? Sometimes more success is had with bits of these confections than with cheese, generally regarded as the foremost mouse-bait."

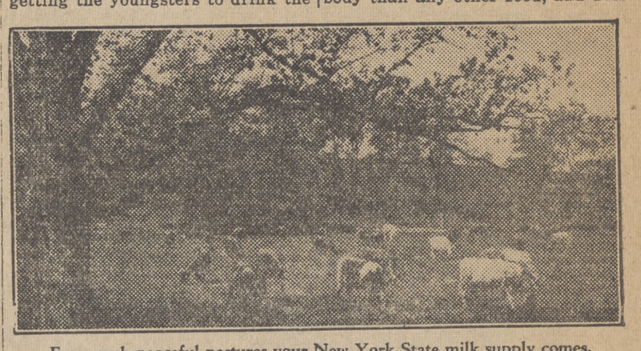
Try Giving Children Drinks Consisting Of Flavored Milk

Collection Of Tested Recipes Is Available Free For Those Who Write For It

By CHARLES H. BALDWIN
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

FLAVORED milk drinks are relished by young and old, but especially by children, some of whom find straight milk unpalatable.

When this condition exists among children, mothers must often try many expedients to find a means of getting the youngsters to drink the necessary quantity of milk. Scientists say all children should have a quart a day. One successful method is that of flavoring milk to make it more palatable and attractive to "fussy" milk drinkers.



From such peaceful pastures your New York State milk supply comes.

Chocolate Flavor

Of the various flavors tried, the addition of chocolate in a fine emulsion seems to be the happiest solution of the problem, because it not only improves the taste, but chocolate itself has a definite value as food, and a beneficial measurable tonic affect for children.

There are scores of other ways of preparing milk so that it will be palatable and these methods are set forth in a booklet "Snappy Milk Drinks" prepared by the Consumers Information Service, Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, N. Y. A copy will be sent upon request.

Whether one likes milk straight or flavored, everyone should drink it. It is the most nearly perfect food. Dr. Henry C. Sherman says of milk: "Milk does more for the body than any other food, and does it more cheaply. It safeguards the low-cost diet for children and adults."

Keep Milk Cool

To obtain the full benefits from milk the consumer must share with those who produce and handle milk the responsibility of keeping it sweet and pure until used.

It must be kept in a clean, cool place free from undesirable odors and put only in scrupulously clean vessels.

New York State insures clean and wholesome milk by rigid inspection during production and distribution. It is up to the consumers to keep milk fresh after it is delivered and to see to it that milk is included in the diet of every member of the family.

HORNELL, N. Y.

Thanksgiving Originated in Early Bible Times, Says Rev. Arnold

Speaker at Union Service in Presbyterian Church Asserts That We of Today Should Be Thankful For the Privilege of Joining the Company of Jesus.

Thanksgiving Day union services were held under auspices of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches last Thursday morning in the First Presbyterian Church of Addison. A goodly number of people were in attendance.

The program was as follows: organ prelude, F. Arden Burt; doxology; psalter, Gloria Patri; scriptural lesson, The Rev. Ralph Webb; prayer, the Rev. J. V. Axtell; hymn, "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come"; Thanksgiving Day sermon, the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold; benediction, the Rev. Arnold; organ postlude, F. Arden Burt.

In his Thanksgiving Day sermon upon the topic "The First Thanksgiving Feast", the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold stated that the idea of thanksgiving orginated in the early Bible times. We of this generation, he said, should be thankful for the privilege of joining the company of Jesus, but more especially that the Saviour should be willing to enter into our hearts.

"If, this morning I were to ask a group of history students the question—when and where did the idea of thanksgiving originate? — they would probably reply: At Plymouth in the year 1621. If I were to reword the question so that it would read—when and where was the first thanksgivivng feast held? — they would give me the same answer. Perhaps they would also supply the additional information that the Pilgrim Fathers after they had gleaned their first harvest felt that a day of thanksgiving and prayer should be observed; that the arrangements were made by Governor Bradley and that the Indian neighbors were invited to the settlement in order that all might eat together, play together and give thanks together", said Mr. Arnold in his introduction.

"Such an answer as given I would be satisfied with if I were concerned only with the history of our nation. However, such a reply is descriptive merely of the first Thanksgiving Day. The idea of thanksgiving originated long before Columbus crossed the unknown Atlantic. Back in early Bible times people gave thanks unto God. Daniel, that great possessor of faith who feared neither man nor beast prayed: "I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, who hast given me wisdom and might.". David, the Hebrew nation's second king wrote the words of Psalm 100 which command a feeling of thanksgiving. Furthermore, we have over in the new Testament that summary of thanksgiving set forth by the apostle Paul: "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift."

"I am also positive that there were held many feasts of thanksgiving prior to the year 1621. One of them I am acquainted with and want to speak about this morning. Let's call it "A First Century Thanksgiving Feast."

"The scene is laid in the city of Jericho. We are gazing into the home of one called Zacchaeus. Reclining at the head of the table we see the host. In the place of honor we behold Jesus of Nazareth. On His right is John, the beloved disciple. Peter and the other disciples are also present. Many noted men living in Jericho are present too. It is an occasion of rejoicing, especially for Zacchaeus. The Master had been willing to enter the home of one who stood condemned in the sight of some of his associates because of his profession. (He was a wealthy, unscrupulous tax collector). People who saw Jesus enter found fault with Him but he had a reply. It was this: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

"Zacchaeus heard that Jesus was going to pass through the city of Jericho. He wanted to see Him. But, he was small of stature. If he stood on a level with other men (there would of course be a great crowd present) his vision would be shut off. Therefore he climbed up into a sycamore tree. When Jesus came along he saw Him. How thankful he was for the opportunity of gazing at Jesus.

"How thankful we should be for the opportunity the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John give us of gazing at the life Jesus lived. How thankful we should also be for the privilege we have of becoming acquainted with His teachings and comforting messages.

"To the great surprise of Zacchaeus Jesus called him by name and said: 'Make haste, and come down; for today I must abide in thy house. Jesus wanted him to become a part of His company. Gladly Zacchaeus obeyed.

"Certainly we should be thankful that we can be numbered with those of Christ's party. The benefits and privileges of being a Christian are many. We also have the opportunity of carrying the Christian message to others. Jesus was speaking to us as well as His disciples and associates when He said: 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature'.

"Zacchaeus was thankful for the opportunity of gazing at Jesus. He coveted the privilege of joining Christ's party but he was even more thankful when Jesus entered his home. Jesus then touched his soul. He became a part of his life. His words were: 'This day is salvation come to this house, forsomuch as he is also a son of Abraham.'

"We should be thankful for the opportunity of beholding Jesus. We should even be more thankful for the privilege we have of joining His company but especially should we be thankful that He is willing to enter our hearts; to reign supremely in our lives.

"For a text let us turn to the sixth chapter of Matthew, verse thirty-three. 'But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.' What things?—The necessities of life. For these we should be thankful but they are not the most important things. To see Jesus as a friend of man, to know Jesus as a daily companion and to have Jesus as a Saviour—these are the important things. Let's be thankful for such privileges. 'Count your many blessings,
Name them one by one,
And it will surprise you
What the Lord hath done'."

The chairman of the Senate's munitions inquiry stated the first of this week it had uncovered evidence the European munitions makers had deliberately scuttled a Geneva plan to control world trade in implements of war. Arms manufacturers, it was said, sat at the elbows of some official delegates to an international conference at Geneva in 1925, and influenced them in writing an agreement so "Innocuous" as to be hopeless for control of armaments.

Patricia Macquire, famed "sleeping beauty" of Oak Park, Ill., has shown signs of awakening from her slumber of 33 months. Doctors had exhausted their medical skill trying to arouse the young woman from her attack of sleeping sickness, but the young woman's mother never has given up hope. The first sign of consciousness was shown when Patricia obeyed her mother's written command to raise her index finger. Since then she has moved her hand in response to the mother's bidding.

France and Germany have signed an agreement whereby the former relinquishes all claim to the disputed Saar Valley. France will not contest the plebiscite which the peace pact set for next January. Germany will pay France nearly sixty million dollars and eleven million tons of coal for the Republic's interests in the rich mines in the Saar. Germany guarantees equal rights to all residents of the territory. This agreement is hailed with joy by those desiring peace in Europe.

Measure Potatoes For Legal Bushel

U. S. Standard Container Act Superseded State Law, which Required 60 Pounds in a Bushel, in 1929

A bushel of potatoes is a bushel when a standard bushel basket, as defined under the U. S. Standard Container Act, is filled level-full of potatoes; the weight has nothing to do with it, according to Webster J. Birdsall of the Department of Agriculture and Markets.

This fact was illustrated at a recent meeting where a bushel of potatoes, bought at a retail store that day, was exhibited. The legal bushel, level-full, contained 51 pounds of potatoes. However, the farmers had been delivering 60 pounds to the bushel believing this to be the legal weight. The standard bushel at 58 cents was no cheaper than the bushel the farmer would have delivered at 68 cents for there were 9 pounds more in the farmer's bushel.

Sixty pounds was the legal weight of a bushel of potatoes in New York State for many years under the Weights and Measures Law. This was changed by the Federal Standard Container Act which became effective in November, 1929. The Federal Act superseded the State Law. The same [illegible] of measure applies to onions, apples or any fruit or vegetables that may be sold by the bushel.

Watch Contract Provisions

A potato grower, he says, cannot be compelled to deliver 60 pounds of potatoes for a bushel unless he has signed a contract containing that provision or o[illegible]erwise obligated himself legally to [illegible]o so. If potatoes are bought and sold in sacks the net weight should be marked no matter what the weight may be. It is safe, he advises, for consumers and growers to buy and sell by weight only. Market quotations for potatoes are given on the basis of pounds; 100 pound sacks, 150 pound sacks, or 180 pounds bulk. Wholesale markets deal in potatoes on the basis of pounds, not in bushels.

He urges growers to follow the reports of trained market reporters stationed at the important wholesale markets by the Department of Agriculture and Markets. These reports of wholesale market conditions widely circulated by newspapers and by radio are available by noon each day.

Court Upholds Control Law

The Milk Control Law was upheld by the Appellate Division, Third Department, November 2, in an action involving the denial of a license to Mayflower Farms, Brooklyn. The Mayflower Farms contended that the company, organized after the original Milk Control Law was in effect, could sell at the unadvertised brand price. The corporation followed that practice, although the law states that "new dealers" should sell at the advertised brand price or one cent a quart more than the unadvertised price. The corporation's application for a license was denied July 9, 1934.

Although the President nominally patched up the differences between Secretary Ickes and Mr. Moffett, both workers in the administration are said to think their plans for building, still are best. Moffett advocates letting private capital back up the building campaign, while Ickes wishes to spend from five to nine billion dollars in public works and slum clearance to move building trades back into jobs. Indications are that both plans will be given a trial.

The man was said to be Elmo Noakes of California, the woman his niece, Winifred Pierce, age 18, and the three girls his daughters. It was believed Noakes suffocated his children and planted the bodies, then drove on some 100 miles before shooting his niece and himself.

chartered institutions the State Banking Board obliged by assuming the responsibility with a resolution on October 29.

Despite this help the national banks continued unwilling to assume the responsibility and sought a ruling from the supervising authorities. This they now have and the maximum time deposit rate for the entire state beginning with January 1st will be 2½ per cent.

The question involved was section 2 of the Federal Reserve Act, which states, "Such banks may continue hereafter as heretofore to receive time and savings deposits and to pay interest on the same but the date of interest which such banks may pay upon such time deposits or upon savings or other deposits shall not exceed the maximum rate authorized by law to be paid upon deposits by state banks or trust companies organized under the laws of the state wherein such banking association is located."

The Federal Reserve Board opinion states that under Section 24 of the Federal Reserve Board's Regulation: "The rate of interest accruing to after January 1, 1935, and during the period that such regulation is in effect, which a national bank, or other member bank located in the State of New York may lawfully pay on time or savings deposits may not exceed the rate of 2½ per cent prescribed in such regulation of the Banking Board".

This does not effect the existing contracts but such contracts may not be renewed at a rate higher that 2½ per cent, the opinion adds.

was no escape. Until Dr. Trudeau demonstrated in his cottage that this was not true, the disease was a scourge. Since that time thausands of lives have been saved because Dr. Trudeau was able to prove that tuberculosis is curable.

"So the Christmas Seal campaign this year is full of meaning. Microscopic in its minute detail, it is microscopic in the universe of knowledge it symbolizes. It is fitting that the 28th annual Christmas Seal should thus express almost the whole of the cause it has been working for all these years. For the battle is not yet won. Enough knowledge we have, truly, but the acceptance of that knowledge by everybody, everywhere, has not yet been achieved. Tuberculosis is still the leading cause of death among people. Nobody will be satisfied with anything less than the complete extermination of this preventable disease.

"The Tuberculosis Committee of the Visiting Nurse and Tuberculosis Association is carrying on this work of tuberculosis prevention in Chemung County through the sale of Christmas Seals. Won't you help it to continue this important work by buying and using Christmas Seals—they help to bring true the statement 'Tuberculosis is Preventable and Curable."

The Christmas Seal sale is being carried on simultaneously in all communities throughout the nation. Mrs. Lynn A. Taylor is chairman of the local committee in charge of the sale in Addison. Ray S. Brown of Addison is a member of the executive committee of the Steuben County Tuberculosis Association which maintains the county home for undernourished children.

The only way to be sure is to investigate in advance. All reputable funeral directors welcome such inquiries and are entirely willing to give specific information without obligation.

Canisteo Courtsters Lower Colors of Jasper High School

Maroon and Gold Repulsed in Both Boys' and Girls' Engagements — Elenora Crain High Scorer for Canisteo Sextet — Jasper Boys Lead Invaders for Three Periods But Are Edged Out in Last Lap.

The Maroon and Gold ensign of Jasper High School fluttered at half mast last Wednesday night after the local team suffered a double defeat at the hands of Canisteo's Crimson tide. In the opener, the Canisteo Girls' team got off to an early start and led the maroon-clad players the rest of the evening.

Elenora Crain, accurate-shooting forward of the invading team, was high point player of the evening with seven field goals and a foul shot to her credit, making a total of fifteen points. Canisteo opened up a rapid passing attack in the first quarter and pierced the local defense repeatedly so that the score was 11-2 at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter, the Jasper defense tightened so that Canisteo was able to score but a single basket. However Jasper was unable to score at all during this period. In the third quarter neither team was able to accomplish very much, Jasper making five points and Canisteo four.

In the opening minutes of the final quarter, the local team brought the home fans to their feet for a few moments when they staged a rushing attack that swept the Canisteo team before them, three field goals being dropped in rapid succession. Then the Canisteo defense tightened and it became necessary for Jasper to resort to long shots in a desperate attempt to convert defeat into victory but the shooting was inaccurate and Canisteo managed to make two field goals on balls recovered from the Jasper backboard. The final score was, Canisteo 21, Jasper 13. Stewart, center for the Jasper team, was second high with four field goals and a foul shot to her credit. It may be noted that the Jasper girls managed to make three points out of ten foul shots while Canisteo made one out of nine. Incidentally, many of the fouls called were of technical nature. The game was played with very evident good nature and good sportsmanship on both shides.

In the nightcap, the main attraction of the evening, a large crowd was treated to one of the best exhibitions of basketball ever witnessed in this vicinity. Although outweighed and outreached, the Jasper team managed to lead the Canisteo team for the first three periods and submitted to defeat only when Canisteo put a complete fresh team into the fray in the final period. Both teams sent their best men onto the floor at the opening whistle and the battle was on. Neither side was able to score until the initial period was nearly over. Then Doc Swan dropped a long one from the center of the floor and the Jasper side of the court went wild. Neither team had been able to penetrate the other's defense beyond the foul line when the whistle ended the first quarter.

In the second period, Waight, left guard of the Jasper team, managed to slip through for another basket and Willover sank a foul shot to put the local team well in the lead. In the final moments of the half, Buckley dribbled in and dropped short one to score Canisteo's lone score for the period. In the third quarter, both teams came out of their defensive formations so that Canisteo scored seven points and Jasper six. In the final quarter, the effects of the game began to show on the Jasper team and Canisteo managed to break through the line. Then the Canisteo coach sent in a new team and they rapidly put the game on ice.

Buckley of the visiting team was high point man with four baskets to his credit. Waight led the Jasper team with two baskets. In this game the Jasper team again outshot their opponents in fouls, sinking two out of five while Canisteo made four out of thirteen. The new regulations on face-guarding were responsible for many of Canisteo's free shots as members of the local team were unused to this ruling. After playing such a close game against a team far out of their class, the local boys are confident they will carry off the championship in their division of the County League. They open their 1935 campaign at Campbell December 7 where they intend to carry off the honors in both boys' and girls' games.

JASPER'S BLUEBBIRDS TO OPEN FAST SCHEDULE

Jasper's Bluebirds were expected to open their 1935 campaign with Elkland on their home court December 4. The Tanners are a fast team this year and expected to give the Bluebirds a hard run for their money. Close on the heels of the Elkland game, Canaseraga invades Jasper with a very fast team. No games will be played at home during the holiday season, but immediately following the first of the year, the team will play Almond, Woodhull, Addison Ags, Addison Shell, Andover and other teams.

Milk is the one indispensable food. Your body must have the materials that it furnishes if you are to live a long and happy life. At twice its present price or more, milk would still be your cheapest all-round food.

A wise nutritional rule is to spend a fifth of your food-budget for milk. Every child should have a quart a day, adults at least a pint. It will repay you a hundredfold in health. Is milk worth what it costs? Yes, many times over!

Addison High Starts Season By Winning From Westfield

Coach Hewson's Boys Defeated Westfield 43 to 16 on The Pennsylvanians' Court Last Wednesday—Wilson Leads Scoring With 12 Points.

The Addison High School basketball team annexed the first victory of its season last Wednesday evening by winning from Westfield High 43 to 16. The game was played on the Pennsylvanian's court. Although the score looked top-heavy for the visiting team, the game was not as lop-sided as the count would indicate. Westfield has a light, fast team and kept up a fighting type of basketball to the very end.

Coach Hewson, watching his charges perform in their first encounter of the season, tried a variety of combinations while looking for the most effective working five to throw against Hornell this week. Nine players were used altogether, and all except one succeeded in scoring against the home five. Bill Wilson had a particularly "hot" night, tossing in six field goals for a total of 12 points. Hargrave and Robbins were also experiencing little difficulty in locating the hoop, each having 8 points. Hickey had 6. Flynn 4, Dominick and Gardner 2, and Gillespie 1.

The game started slowly, neither side being able to score for nearly five minutes. Once the ice was broken the Addison boys kept the score double over their opponents all the time. The Knights led 4 at the end of the first quarter and 16 to 7 at the end of the half. In the third quarter the Addison boys went on a scoring spree, tossing in some eight baskets for a total of 16 points before the reserves entered the game. Even with the reserves filling a majority of the positions the Knights outscored the Westfield boys 11 to 5.

The game was capably refereed by Kermit Moore of Westfield, who handled the whistle with the strictest fairness for both sides.

Addison 2nd Team Loses To Westfield

The Addison High School reserves dropped a nip and tuck game to the Westfield second team last Wednesday, as an introduction to the Varsity's win over the lads in Tannertown. The game was not decided until the two quintets had played through an extra three-minute period.

Addison was leading 21 to 19 with only a minute to play, when a Westfield player was fouled as he tried to shoot a basket. McLean missed the try, but the ball was tapped through the hoop by a fellow player tying the count 21 all. Westfield won on two free throws, the Addison reserves failing to score in the extra period.

Gardner of Addison was the individual star of the contest, tossing six field and one foul basket for a total of 13 points. After playing this fine game Gardner went into the main fray and tossed another field goal, making himself a total of 15 points for the evening.

Westfield Plays Here Next Thursday Evening

The first boys basket ball game of the local season will be played on the Addison court Tuesday evening, when the Westfield High School quintet comes here for a return engagement.

Although Addison defeated Westfield by a safe margin last week, the Tanners have a fast five and should give Coach Hewson's lads a good stiff game Tuesday. This meeting will afford local fans their first opportunity to see the 1934 edition of the Knights in action. A good crowd is expected out for the game.

F. Arden Burt's Lyres took the measure of The Addison Indians in a closely contested game on the high school gymnasium floor last Friday afternoon. The Indians started off sensationally in the first quarter, piling up a lead of five points prior to the first whistle. The music boys came back strong in the second half, however, and tied the count, leaving the score knotted at 20 all as the regulation playing time ended. An extra point was added in the overtime session to give the laurels to the musical athletes.

Coach Hewson's Five All Set To Avenge Last Year's Defeats

The Addison Knights meet their first real test of the season Friday evening, when they go to Hornell for the opening league game with Hornell Academy. Addison fans will be watching for the outcome of this contest with keenest interest, for the result of this initial game may well cast a great deal of light upon the Knights' chances during 1934-35.

Addison dropped both games of the home and home series to Hornell last year, losing on the Addison court 13 to 12 and in Hornell 33 to 25. Both teams have retained a majority of last year's squad so practically the same quints will be facing each other Friday as played in the two games last year. Despite the fact Hornell took the series last year, Addison's chances against the Maple City are not too bad. Coach Hewson's tossers led nearly three-quarters of the time in the game at Hornell last year, minus the services of their star forward, Wilson, who is expected to be all over the Hornell court Friday. The Addison team's chances were badly crippled last year when "Bill" suffered a sprained ankle.

Critics of the Knights state coach Hewson has his squad working in smoother style this year, and predict the Addison boys will play Hornell on at least even terms. The fact Hornell is just switching from football to basket ball, while Addison has been on the court for three weeks, should be a point in the latter's favor.

Scouting Aid To Schools, Says Miss Davis

Scouting makes use of the teen-age girl's natural enthusiasms, her desire to do things on her own with other girls, to work at things she feels are worthwhile and to explore new sides of life.

"The program has a score of common experiences dealing with outdoor life, household activities, health, first aid, and citizenship", Miss Davis continued. "The study of these and many other scientific and cultural subjects is encouraged by means of a proficiency badge system, which gives the girl a chance to try out her own particular bent of talent. In this way she is helped not only to prosecute her school work but often to find her vocation."

Miss Davis pointed out that Girl Scout leadership provided a fertile field of endeavor for school teachers who are temporarily unemployed. Many cities, she said, are allowing credits for such work to members of their staffs.

"It gives a teacher a chance to test her own capacity in an atmosphere free of the usual classroom discipline, to see whether she is able to rouse the enthusiasm for the task in hand, which is the real test of success in her profession", Miss Davis said. "It keeps her in close and pleasant contact with the classroom 'material' from which is being moulded the coming generation, and makes it possible for her to maintain in her work a continuity, without which neither she nor her pupil can be successful in the better days, which we all hope, will be here soon.

Addison Girls To Play Elkland Sextet Thursday

The Addison girls team has a game scheduled with Elkland High, Thursday afternoon at the close of school. As Hornell does not have a girls team, the Addison lassies will not be going to the Maple City Friday. Coach Harbeck arranged the game with Elkland in order to get a line on her charges before they encounter league competition.

The Addison equad has a wealth of likely looking material but several of the players have not been under fire in an actual game. Thursday's contest against Elkland should give an indication of what kind of a girls team will represent the school this year.

"Night of Love" Now Showing At Fox

No love—no lovers! No time for laughter! All she wanted was romance from one man—who gave her only fame! This is the touching predicament in which Grace Moore finds herself as star of Columbia's romantic drama, "One Night of Love", showing Saturday at the Fox Theatre.

With the money won in a radio voice contest, Miss Moore goes to Italy to study voice culture. There she meets an ardorous music teacher (Tullio Carminati) who agrees to develop her operatic talents—but there must be no love affair. He lost a former protege because she found romance more to her liking than warbling scales.

But the affairs of the heart are no affair of the mind. She sings and sings—but falls in love just the same. She thrilled the world with her golden voice—while she dreamed of thrills in the arms of the man she loves. Grace Moore—America's most beautiful singing star — in a glorious romantic drama!

Others in the cast are Lyle Talbot, Mona Barrie, Jessie Ralph, Andres De Segurola, Metropolitan opera star, and Rose Marie Glosz, the original star of "The Merry Widow". Victor Schertzinger directed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Little, Mrs. Cora Bailey, Mrs. Carrie Crittenden, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Loper and Francis Kane attended the meeting of Pomona Grange in Canisteo Wednesday.
